

ABSTRACT

A desk lamp with rotary switch, characterized in that a control rotary table and a rotary switch are configured on a base of the lamp. The rotary switch enables a power supply and lightbulbs to constitute a circuit loop. According to the aforesaid structure, the desk lamp utilizes the control rotary table to control turning on and turning off of the lightbulbs. Thus, the desk lamp having a unique design enhances eye appeal and fascination, as well as achieving efficacy of endowing a consumer with a novel feeling toward the desk lamp and thus producing a desire to purchase the desk lamp.